What Makes A Good Doll?

If you're new to dolls you may be a little confused as to what doll to buy and where to buy it. I know I was when I first started to investigate them.

There are now a large number of websites selling dolls and choosing between them can be tough.

In the following pages I'd like to talk to you about the following things to consider when choosing a vendor

What Are People Saying About Them

You probably know that it's quite easy to set up a website these days, so literally anyone can start "selling" dolls.

The best thing to check is that the website has a physical presence:

- Has a company address
- Has a telephone number

These things mean the company stands behind their website and is invested in the industry enough to hang around for a long period of time.

One of the most important things is that:

- They have some kind of independent review system like Trustpilot (otherwise the reviews are likely made up)

Is It Too Good To Be True

So you've seen an incredibly lifelike doll that normally seems to sell around £1499 on other websites but you've found one that sells them for £500. You've hit the jackpot right?

Not likely

- There are a few things you need to watch out for:
  - Bait and switch – in which they send you a completely different doll that kind of looks like the one you ordered
  - Fakes - They send you a fake – believe it or not there are now dozens of factories who copy all the top brand sex dolls. The finished articles look pretty good but the quality is not there so you won't enjoy them as much and they won't last too long
  - Lower Quality - Their dolls look different to higher priced dolls and the quality is simply not as good

Oh dear: This doll looked great but as you can see didn't last

Not All Sex Dolls Are Made Equal

So you've seen a website selling cheaper dolls? The pictures look good and you're sure they're not fakes and they'll send you what's in the pictures. How can they be so much cheaper?

- Well it comes down to the quality of the doll:
  - TPE – this is the material used to make the skin and flesh of the doll. How good it is will decide how nice it feels and how long it lasts. If it's lower quality it will feel a bit more rubbery and will probably begin to tear early on
  - Skeleton – How well the internal skeleton moves and lasts will affect your enjoyment of the doll as well as how long you keep it. Some lower quality dolls have very poor skeletons which results in some early and serious damage – like complete back snaps.
